

FRISCHLA spinning, long ago, sighs as she thinks how soon her linen will lose its glossy luster, when the wash it once or twice has been in. She does not know that in the soap the evil lies that makes her suffer. Its great excess of alkali, which cuts the fiber, makes it rougher.

Our modern maidens need not sigh since IVORY SOAP has been invented. Containing no free alkali—by which the skin is prevented. For linen washed with IVORY SOAP in snowy beauty! It never diminishes. But always, while it lasts, preserves its pristine gloss and lustrous finish.

A WORD OF WARNING.

There are many white soaps, each represented to be "just as good as the Ivory." They ARE NOT, but like all counterfeits, lack the peculiar and remarkable qualities of the genuine. Ask for "Ivory" Soap and insist upon getting it.

CURRENT COMMENT.

A LITTLE TAPPI.

Editor Chas. Meacham, of the Hopkinsville Kentuckian is making that paper one of the brightest sheets issued by the country press in the State—Franklin Favorite.

A POET NAYED.

We have received a poem at this office entitled, "Why Do I Live." We can answer this by saying, "Because you sent the poem by mail instead of bringing it in person."—Clarksville Chronicle.

A SAW-CT FELLOW.

The Mt. Vernon Star, speaking of a serial story it intends publishing, says: "The boys here saw fit to call it, etc." Now if the Star will saw wood and have a few times its grammar may be improved.—Henderson Glenner.

COMMENDABLE REFORM.

Charles Meacham has instituted a commendable reform with the new year by dropping the "South" from his sprightly paper, the Hopkinsville Kentuckian. South Kentuckian is entirely too long.—Paducah Standard.

GETS THERE JUST THE SAME.

The South Kentuckian has wisely assumed the name of the Hopkinsville Kentuckian. By any other name the paper is just as good. We all welcome its coming; even if there be a brevity in name it details the news just the same.—Clarksville Progress.

AN UNKIND INSINUATION.

Many of our exchanges are expressing surprise that eighteen hundred girls have graduated from the Boston cooking schools and yet the death rate in the city is not large. It is probable, however, that only a few of the graduates have availed themselves of the opportunities offered by their education.—Henderson Glenner.

LOGAN'S DUTCH CHESTNUTS.

Efforts are making to discontinue the teaching of German in the public schools of Louisville. We are happy in being able to inform the Kentucky Press Association that the abolition of German in the schools will have no effect upon Col. Emmett Logan's annual supply of fresh German anecdotes.—Frankfort Capital.

HE DIED FOR OTHERS.

James Givens, the young Englishman whose heroic exploit on the burning steamer Hann, cost him his life, is another "Jim Bludsoe." The London press is said to be full of tributes to his bravery and self sacrifice and compare him to the character immortalized in Col. Hay's famous poem.—Evansville Tribune.

THE EDITOR REMEMBERED.

The lady who recently sent us a pin of sausage, a jar and a dish of preserves, a bucket of chow-chow pickle and a dish of cucumber pickle is known far and wide for her whole-souled generosity, but we refrain from publishing her name, lest she might not like to see her generosity

SOME LITTLE THINGS.

Why They Are of Much Importance to a Truly Tidy House.
Sweeping is an art; a homely art, perhaps, but it takes care to sweep, to stand it thoroughly and so proficient in it. I sweep our parlor every day and do not wear out the carpet either. How? With a brush broom wet, and a dustpan. I don't even have to cover or remove a thing. It saves the heavy sweeper, that wears out so many carpets. I brush lightly; it is tiresome work, but it pays.

I heard a lady say the other day that she let her youngest daughter dust the parlor, and when the work was done she would go to her and say that everything there was as clean and nice as possible. "But," added the lady, "I know what that meant, and on looking found every thing apparently as clean as a pin—until I looked at the bases around the wall. Nellie never thinks of them. They were fairly white with dust." Isn't that often the case? The tops of pictures, the tops of the heavy thread enters which the side of the eye is pressed.

A novice could never guess how to use the needle made for sewing soles on shoes. The glove needles are marvellously fine affairs, though even the daintiest of them are three-cornered points. The knitting and astrachan needles want no mention.

The needle for filling rugs has given place to an ingenious machine, which does four times the work. The beading needle is slender and long. The rag baster's needle is broad and flat, and is another invention made for Chicago. The weaver's pin for picking up broken threads has an open eye in a hook, which catches and holds the lost thread firmly.

The making of a needle is a very laborious matter in Germany, France and England, where it is done by hand. The polishing there requires sixty or seventy days. But in America it has called forth some of the most interesting and delicate inventions in machinery of which this country can boast.—N. Y. Tribune.

FOOD FOR THE BIRDS.

Curious and Interesting Facts About the Cuckoo Caterpillar.
The mission of the caterpillar may be considered as twofold. He has to reach the chrysalis stage, from which he will emerge as a butterfly or moth, and then perpetuate his species; and he is an admirable machine for the conversion of vegetable matter into a form in which it can be digested and relished by birds. He stands to the feathered world, indeed, in exactly the same position that the ox and the sheep occupy in relation to man. Although partial to seeds and fruits, birds are not vegetarians in the broad sense of the term, and would starve had they nothing but leaves to devour, whether the leaves of the rose or the cabbage; the caterpillar, however, is the rescue and forms the intermediate link. He possesses an appetite of extraordinary voracity, and, in the course of his not very long life, eats many hundred times his weight of vegetable, and converts them into a rich and nutritious food for the birds. It may be said, that in this respect at least, the instinct of caterpillars must be defective, or, knowing that their plumpness is their danger, they would eat less. This is no doubt true, but as it is true also of sheep and bullocks, it can hardly be made the subject of reproach to the caterpillar. But, after all, vast as is the number of caterpillars who go to feed the birds, it can not be said that birds are by any means their chief enemy. Their great foe and relentless exterminator is the ichneumon, against whom none of their cunning devices of concealment avail, but who can discover them in their most lurking places. The ichneumon varies in size as greatly as does the caterpillar himself. Some of them are as long as wasps, although with a slender body, no thicker than a bodkin; some so tiny that they can scarcely be seen with the naked eye, but all are alike in their habits. Watch one, large or small, as he settles upon a leaf. Straightway he begins to hunt up and down with quick, eager motion, like a dog quarrying a turnip field for partridge. Up and down he goes, hunting, prying into every cranny, he hunts, hurrying from one leaf to another until he finds a caterpillar. He wastes no time with him; he thrusts the long ovipositor through the skin and places an egg snugly there. He repeats this three or four times, until he has deposited three or four of his children, and it is brought from them fully 300 worms.

This, I think, is worth calling attention to the friends of children and gardeners to worms. It will save many more of the VERMIFORM. For sale by H. B. Gardner.

WHIT'S CREAM VERMIFORM is the largest 25-cent worm medicine in the market, the dose being small, it is the cheapest. It is its own purgative, and does not require to be followed by the nauseous dose of castor oil or other purgative medicine. Full directions on every bottle. For sale by H. B. Gardner.

D. S. Troutman, West Fork P. O., Reynolds County, Mo., writes as follows: "I sold one bottle of WHIT'S CREAM VERMIFORM to my neighbor, Mr. Allen Moore. He fed the medicine to three of his children, and it brought from them fully 300 worms. This, I think, is worth calling attention to the friends of children and gardeners to worms. It will save many more of the VERMIFORM. For sale by H. B. Gardner.
